Description

The International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP) provides policy-makers with an unbiased source of evidence-based knowledge and expertise in the field of information and communication technology (ICT). To celebrate IFIP's 60th anniversary, its members and affiliates will address the future of information processing with a focus on the intersection between information technology and society.

This session will publicise the main outcomes of a series of events addressing educational and social challenges to achieving

"Sustainable Education in a Digital Age of Rapidly Emerging Technologies," and how to overcome them. This session is under the umbrella of the IFIP TC3 Zanzibar Declaration, which began in March of 2021 and will continue until November of 2021.
